Welcome to The 2015 National Meeting!

In the spirit of U.S. Department of Education’s “National Meetings” of the past, and The Ohio State University’s Generation Rx conferences, this year’s meeting brings together leaders in the field, practice professionals and researchers with the goal of addressing the serious issues surrounding alcohol and drug misuse among college students.

In many ways our field sits at a crossroads—we have mounting evidence of effective prevention approaches for alcohol problems and prescription drug misuse and a growing recovery movement on college campuses. Yet, we arguably have fewer governmental resources than we did a decade or two ago and many campus AOD professionals struggle to fund their efforts. There remains a substantial gap between science and practice. The shifting norms and policies related to marijuana pose new challenges for campus officials and prevention professionals alike.

In the spirit of meeting these challenges and advancing the field, The National Meeting features nationally recognized experts in the areas of alcohol, marijuana and prescription drug prevention. The meeting also features many of the key leaders in the college recovery field including Dr. Kitty Harris of Texas Tech University and Greg Williams, the Founder of Unite to Face Addiction. Our presenters will be discussing the most current science and best practices related to AOD prevention and recovery. With numerous opportunities to network, it is our hope that conference participants also share their practice wisdom with each other our speakers—our hope is to foster innovation and learning in a stimulating environment.

We would like to thank you for your attendance and support of the Higher Education Center (HECAOD) and The National Meeting. Similarly, we would like to thank our generous sponsors, especially the Conrad N Hilton Foundation who made the rebirth of the Higher Education Center for Alcohol and Drug Misuse Prevention and Recovery possible.

Enjoy the meeting!
Sincerely,

John Clapp, PhD, FAAHB

Continuing Education Units have been applied for social workers, counselors, nurses, pharmacists, psychologists, prevention practitioners and chemical dependency counselors through the state of Ohio. CHES (National) has approved 13 clock hours and 14 hours have been applied for the other disciplines.

All attendees needing a certificate for continuing education are required to sign-in at the registration table each morning of the conference. If you do not sign in for the day, you will not receive a certificate. At sign-in you will receive an attendance verification form that must be completed and returned to the registration table at the end of each conference day. At the end of each session, a code will be given to record on the form. Certificates will be emails to participants by August 31st.

Thank you to Drug Free Action Alliance for coordinating this year’s CEUs for the National Meeting.

You already know that there’s an issue.

That every day, millions of Americans, many who are adolescents, misuse prescription drugs. But one student, one professor, one counselor, or anyone can make a difference.

The Ohio State University College of Pharmacy and the Cardinal Health Foundation teamed up to create Generation Rx, an initiative aimed at raising awareness about the dangers of prescription drug misuse. We’ve created a suite of toolkits and resources to help educate people of all ages in community-based groups about the scope and consequences of prescription drug misuse.

You are the power of one. Together, we can be the power of many.

Download the toolkits for free at www.generationrx.org
AMELIA M. ARRIA, Ph.D.

Amelia M. Arria, Ph.D. is currently the Director of the Center on Young Adult Health and Development at the University of Maryland School of Public Health and an Associate Professor with the Department of Behavioral and Community Health. Currently, she is the Principal Investigator on the College Life Study, a longitudinal prospective study of health-risk behaviors among college students. Her primary research focus has been to understand familial, social, and individual risk and resiliency factors associated with mental health and substance abuse among adolescents and young adults. Moreover, much of her research has direct relevance to both clinicians and policy makers. She has authored more than 140 scientific peer-reviewed publications and is the recipient of numerous grant awards from foundations, and state and federal agencies. She received a B.S. in Human Development from Cornell University, a Ph.D. in Epidemiology from the University of Pittsburgh School of Public Health and completed postdoctoral training at the Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health.

KITTY HARRIS, Ph.D.

Dr. Kitty Harris is a Professor in the Addictive Disorder and Recovery Studies program in the Department of Community Family and Addiction Services in the College of Human Sciences at Texas Tech University. She serves as the Co-Director, Institute for the Study of Addiction, Recovery & Families. Dr. Harris currently holds LCDC (Licensed Chemical Dependency Counselor) and LMFT (Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist) licenses. Dr. Harris is a noted public speaker, and presenter at national conferences, workshops and seminars on topics including adolescence; substance abuse prevention; addiction and recovery; and communication, civility and leadership. She is the author of Women and Recovery-Finding Hope, published by John Wiley & Sons, Inc. and co-editor of Substance Abuse Recovery in College, published by Springer. Also she serves as the Co-Editor of the Alcoholism Treatment Quarterly. She served for twelve years as the Director of the Center for the Study of Addiction and Recovery (CSAR) at Texas Tech University. Under her leadership, the CSAR gained national attention, appearing in the Wall Street Journal, on the NBC Today Show, CNN, and featured in The Chronicle of Higher Education, Inside Higher Ed, and The New York Times. For six years, she was also Associate Dean of the College of Human Sciences at Texas Tech University.

GARY MENDELL

Gary Mendell is the founder and CEO of Shatterproof, a national organization committed to protecting our children from addiction to alcohol or other drugs, and ending the stigma and suffering of those affected by this disease. Mr. Mendell founded Shatterproof to honor his son, Brian, who lost his battle with addiction in 2011. In its first year, Shatterproof was influential in the passage of legislation in three states that will significantly reduce the number of deaths related to overdose, and has provided funding to expand the use of an intervention program that has proven to reduce the number of our teens that will become addicted. Shatterproof has also launched a series of innovative rappelling events in thirty cities across the United States to reduce the stigma associated with this disease, and raise funding for its mission. Prior to Shatterproof, Mr. Mendell founded and was CEO of HEI Hotels & Resorts. HEI manages a portfolio of ~40 hotels, with revenues of ~$650 million and value of ~$3 billion. Prior to HEI, Mr. Mendell was president of Starwood Lodging Trust and a member of its board of trustees. Mr. Mendell received his B.S. from Cornell University’s School of Hotel Administration and his MBA with distinction from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.
PETER LAKE, JD

Peter F. Lake is professor of law, Charles A. Dana chair and director of the Center for Excellence in Higher Education Law and Policy at Stetson University College of Law. He teaches and writes in the areas of torts, higher education law and policy, insurance, and jurisprudence, and has won several awards for his teaching and scholarship. He is an internationally-recognized expert on higher education law and policy and has been quoted or referred to in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, USA Today, Chicago Sun Times, The Chronicle of Higher Education, Time, Newsweek, Cosmopolitan, various reported legal decisions including the supreme courts of Virginia and Florida, and the most recent Restatement of the Law of Torts. He has appeared on several major media networks including NPR, ABC and CNN. Professor Lake has authored numerous law review articles and other publications, including four books: Higher Education and the Law: Cases and Materials [with Judith Areen] (West Academic Publishing 2014), The Rights and Responsibilities of the Modern University: The Rise of the Facilitator University (Carolina Academic Press 2013), Foundations of Higher Education Law & Policy: Basic Legal Rules, Concepts and Principles for Student Affairs (NASPA 2011), and Beyond Discipline – Managing the Modern Higher Education Environment (Hierophant Enterprises, Inc. 2009). Professor Lake is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

LINDA COOKE, JD

Linda Cooke is the presiding judge of the Boulder Municipal Court. Her work as a judge has focused on Alcohol and Other Drug (AOD) issues within the university community of Boulder, CO, underscoring the importance of an environmental management approach and evidence-based sentencing and treatment. Alcohol and marijuana use and their impacts have been the primary areas of focus in this regard. Following legalization of medical and recreational marijuana in Colorado, Judge Cooke has developed considerable policy expertise related to marijuana impacts, policy, regulation, and enforcement. This has included developing strategies specific to a community which houses a large university and demonstrates marijuana use by youth which is higher than the national average. She was a keynote and breakout speaker on this topic at the 2014 International Town Gown Association conference. She was also a presenter on marijuana issues at the Drug Free Alliance’s Marijuana Advocacy and Policy Summit in March, 2015. Judge Cooke is the co-chair of Boulder’s town/gown substance use coalition, and also sits on the steering committee of Boulder County Public Health’s Reducing Substance Abuse (RSA) initiative.

GREG WILLIAMS

Greg Williams is a person in long-term recovery from addiction to alcohol and other drugs since age seventeen. He is a health policy advocate, and award-winning documentary filmmaker who specializes in the creation of compelling and purposeful content. At age 31, “The Anonymous People” is Greg’s first independent feature-length film. His new film is bringing lasting solutions to the screen for one of America’s top health problems. After a large grassroots theatrical release in 2013 and 2014 the film is continuing to show in communities around the world. “The Anonymous People” has already received widespread critical acclaim and a variety of industry awards.

HIGHER ED PROFESSIONALS,
FOR HIGHER ED PROFESSIONALS
Nationwide, 21,000,000 students enrolled in the higher education system are the nation’s greatest assets. Yet substance misuse can so easily derail the success of the student. The Higher Education Center for Alcohol and Drug Misuse Prevention and Recovery partners with college and universities across the nation to prevent these types of issues and helps to advocate for students in recovery. Led by passionate Higher Education Professionals, HECAOD understands the challenges many campuses face when working to change their campus culture surrounding alcohol and drug misuse.

WHAT IS AVAILABLE FOR YOU
Our website offers collegiate prevention resources in addition to resources for campuses, students and families around the important issue of recovery. Webinars, podcasts, electronic newsletters, and iTunesU courses are just a few of the ways you can educate yourself on-the-go. We believe continuing education is imperative to being responsive to the ever-changing nature of collegiate AOD misuse and recovery. HECAOD can also provide technical assistance over the phone, Skype or in person.

Marijuana and Other Drugged Driving Prevention Challenges
Dr. James Lange, San Diego State University

This session will review the current understanding of the prevalence and risks of driving under the influence of drugs (DUID), with a special focus on the college population. By placing this emerging research into historical and social perspective, we will begin to identify the challenges to prevention efforts, and also the possible directions effective strategies may employ.

Integrating Screening and Brief Intervention for Alcohol and Other Drugs On Your Campus: Strategies for Success and Lessons Learned
Dolores Cimini, Ph.D., University of New Albany

Challenges associated with SBI implementation and program sustainability in several types of campus service delivery settings will be addressed. Participants will learn innovative and creative strategies for making SBI more relevant and responsive to a range of diverse college student target populations identified in the literature as being at risk for alcohol and other drug misuse.

How to Use the Findings from the College Prescription Drug Study on Your Campus
Anne McDaniel, Ph.D., The Ohio State University

The College Prescription Drug Study (CPDS) examines college students' non-medical use and abuse of prescription drugs and was administered on 10 college campuses during Spring 2015. This session highlights the main findings of the CPDS and how the findings can be used to improve programs, services and educational efforts around the misuse and abuse of prescription drugs on college campuses. Examples of how schools plan to translate the findings from their campus into changes or improvements will be shared.

The Benefits of On-Campus Living for Recovering College Students
Patrice Salmeri, Ausberg College

Using a theoretical foundation, this workshop explores the benefits of on-campus residential housing for collegiate recovery program students. It will identify the needs of college students in recovery and how a community of staff and students can help to support those needs. This on campus living community provides students with an opportunity to have a traditional college experience with the support and protection associated with a collegiate recovery community.

SBIRT & BEYOND: Evidence for Prevention before Indication
Patrick Moore, Kennesaw State University

This session will explore Motivational Assessment Prevention Program (MAPP) as an educational brief intervention and Referral to Treatment (eBIRT). MAPP is a collection of models presented by staff or peer educators in college classroom settings. The result is a measurement of risk over time from one presentation. There is strong evidence that MAPP identifies and intervenes on all risk levels - before indication. The models, assessment, variables, data and results of research are shown.

Drinking Culture Close Up: A Group-Based Motivational Enhancement Approach to Alcohol Risk Reduction in Cohesive Student Groups
Angela Mitchell, MA, LCSW, Northwestern University

Students in Greek Life organizations and on athletic teams are consistently cited as 'high risk' drinking groups on college campuses. This presentation will introduce a theoretically-based motivational approach to working with cohesive student groups to enhance their motivation to adopt less risky alcohol use behaviors.

Comprehensive and System Approach to BAC and Responsible Beverage Service Management
Doug Everhart, M.Ed., Jack McManus, The University of California, Irvine

This presentation will share how UC Irvine is using very specific information, targeted training, environmental approaches, and systemic implementation strategies to not only assist with changing individual behavior, but provide environmental support and systemic business practices to support those behaviors. Learn how the Center for Student Wellness & Health Promotion, Dining & Hospitality Services, UCI Police, and Athletics collaborated to implement a comprehensive approach to responsible beverage service and customer BAC management.

Prescription Drugs and NCAA Student Athletes: A Panel Discussion
Mary Wilfert, M.Ed., Laura Farleman, Jordan Ashley, Connor Passalacqua, NCAA, Cedarville University, Presbyterian College, SUNY POL Y

This session will present data about student-athlete reported prescription drug use from the NCAA 2013 Substance Use Study, and additional information gathered this spring from the National Student-Athlete Advisory Committee representatives from all three NCAA Divisions. Student-athlete panelists along with NCAA staff will discuss concerns and identify strategies to raise awareness and implement best practices to deter illicit use of prescription drugs by student-athletes.

The Center for Students in Recovery (CSR) at The University of Texas at Austin, established in 2004, has flourished on the UT Austin campus. In 2012, the Board of Regents of the University of Texas System approved funds to expand programs like CSR to the entire UT System. The expansion has been met with great success, and in February 2015 received another three years of funding. This presentation provides a history and overview of this expansion effort, with the hope that other university systems will take a similar approach to collegiate recovery.

Drugged Driving = Done Driving

RADD, The Entertainment Industry’s Voice for Road Safety, in partnership with the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), the Governors Highway Safety Association (GHSA), the Ohio Office of Traffic Safety (OTSO) and RADD’s corporate partners, Ford Driving Skills for Life and Nationwide Insurance, is launching a public awareness campaign to educate teens and young adults, ages 14-24 about the risks of driving under the influence of prescription, over-the-counter (OTC) drugs, and marijuana. The campaign will be piloted in the state of Ohio and expand from there.

The Utility of Photovoice for Collegiate Alcohol and Drug Misuse Prevention and Recovery

Ashley Frazier, Mushin Michael Orsini, Ed.D., The University of North Carolina Greensboro

Photovoice’s objective is to reach policy makers through public exhibit of the photographic works and persuade action on the issues identified by the people who live in the community. Photovoice has been used to address alcohol issues in high school and college communities. We will share information about our experience using the process and tool.

Implementing Screening, Brief Intervention and Referral to Treatment Across Campus

Molly Hegarty, Constance Boehm, MA, The Ohio State University

This session will present the procedures and outcomes of a pilot program conducted at Ohio State University Student Legal Services in partnership with HECAOD and the Office of student Life’s Student Wellness Center. We will explain how the partnership was formed, the procedures to effectively administer SBIRT to students with alcohol and/or drug related offenses and the next steps to further advance these efforts.

Considerations for Collegiate Recovery Program Development: A Descriptive Overview of Various Program Models

Anne Thompson Heller, MA, MFT, Beth S. Russell, University of Connecticut

With a growing number of collegiate recovery programs (CRPs) across the country, it can difficult for developing programs to know what approaches to take regarding program design, implementation, and operation. This session is designed to share with you various program options shared anonymously from 23 diverse CPRs across the country. These institutions have provided information about how their programs are staffed, different funding structures, as well as different student requirements, supports, resources, and opportunities. This session’s aim is to help inspire ideas for individual program development.

NFL/NFLPA Drug Policies; Balancing Fair Competition, Player Health and Discipline

Juné Rogers, NFL Players Association

This presentation will share the structure of the NFL/NFLPA drug policies and programs. The processes that are necessary to successfully implement drug policies will be explored, and how to accurately determine the difference between medically necessary prescription drug use, misuse, and use for performance-enhancing purposes. This session will offer a different perspective on prescription drug misuse, while being very applicable to student athletes and non-athletes alike.

Creating Change Through Collaboration

Kim Dude, M.Ed., Joan Masters The University of Missouri, Missouri Partners in Prevention

We cannot expect students to heed prevention messages if environmental influences draw them in the opposite direction. The University of Missouri’s Wellness Resource Center has worked with key stakeholders on campus and in the community to implement changes in city laws, campus policies and practices through comprehensive evidence-based environmental management strategies that have changed the environment that influences individual’s behavior choices. There will be a focus on changes in alcohol related policies and practices.
The Greek Challenge: Small Group Norms at Villanova University
Stacy Andes, MA, Ed.D., Villanova University

On many campuses across the country, efforts targeting Greek-affiliated students have involved campus-wide programs and events that do not necessarily take into account the particular needs and concerns of Greek students. In an effort to move away from “blanket mandated programming” for our fraternities and sororities, Through the small group social norms approach, Chapter-level action plans have resulted in meaningful strategies that treat each Chapter as its own culture and identity in the context of the larger issues of higher-risk alcohol use, other drug use, and bystander intervention.

Value of the National Safety Council’s Safe Communities America Program in Creating an Engagement Community Coalition
Colleen Harshbarger, MS, West Virginia University

The West Virginia University and Greater Morgantown Safe Communities Initiative began as a strategic approach to address challenging community issues impacting safety and wellbeing. In addition to bringing together key stakeholders from the university, city, county and state legislature, the process has led to commonality in sense of purpose and is laying the groundwork for a measurable, systematic, community based approach to injury prevention. Process and progress information will be shared.

Igniting the Vision: Creating a Culture of Advocacy for Students in Recovery Within Institutions of Higher Education
Audrey L. Pusey, M.Ed., The University of California, Riverside

This session will outline pertinent moments of growth, and highlight pioneers, within in the Collegiate Recovery movement over the past three decades. Focus will be placed on the acceleration of the Collegiate Recovery movement within the western region of the nation, specifically, within the state of California from 2008 to present. Tools for effecting growth within these communities will be discussed including, the importance of student advocacy, staff support and community involvement.

The Ohio State University’s Higher Education Center for Alcohol and Drug Misuse Prevention and Recovery (HECAOD) would like to learn about your institution’s efforts to combat alcohol and drug misuse. As a college health professional, we need your expertise to help us meet the needs of the college alcohol and other drug prevention field.

Below is a link to a survey designed to get a better understanding of the types of programs/policies utilized on your campus as well as the budget, assessment practices, and community involvement with AOD issues. We need your help to set a national agenda and guide our work.

We anticipate the survey will take you approximately 30 minutes to complete.

ScreenU is a brand new screening, brief intervention, and referral to treatment (SBIRT) program, used to detect students at risk for alcohol and prescription drug misuse. ScreenU consists of questions used to identify alcohol or prescription drug misuse and dependence and provides feedback and strategies to reduce a student’s risk for experiencing negative consequences from their use.

ScreenU was created to allow campuses to easily and cost-effectively administer SBIRT to students in a variety of settings. This research based, web-hosted tool can be used in a variety of settings. Students receive customized feedback based on their responses to both ScreenU Alcohol and ScreenU Rx. Each campus can customize the resources the student receives, including referral to treatment.

Campuses will have their own dashboard to track the data collected from the ScreenU campaign, including student completion and aggregate results. Administrators will be able to easily determine how many students have completed the screening, and view a break down of the responses based on question to view the overall risk level for the student body screened. Campuses can compare separate campaign results to analyze data over time.
